

LESSON 3.1

abhor: (v.) to hate; to shrink from disgust

Ex. I used to abhor spinach, but now I really like to eat it.

etiquette: (n.) the manner and behaviors considered to be acceptable

Ex. Dining etiquette is different at a picnic than at a formal dinner.

imply: (v.) to suggest or express without directly saying

Ex. I yawned to imply that I was bored and was ready to go home.

persevere: (v.) to keep at something even though it is difficult

Ex. Success comes to those who persevere even when they think they can't go on.

remorse: (n.) deep regret and a feeling of guilt over one's wrongdoing

Ex. The boy showed remorse when he realized he'd hurt my feelings.

LESSON 3.1

abhor: (v.) to hate; to shrink from disgust

Ex. I used to abhor spinach, but now I really like to eat it.

etiquette: (n.) the manner and behaviors considered to be acceptable

Ex. Dining etiquette is different at a picnic than at a formal dinner.

imply: (v.) to suggest or express without directly saying

Ex. I yawned to imply that I was bored and was ready to go home.

persevere: (v.) to keep at something even though it is difficult

Ex. Success comes to those who persevere even when they think they can't go on.

remorse: (n.) deep regret and a feeling of guilt over one's wrongdoing

Ex. The boy showed remorse when he realized he'd hurt my feelings.